SOME time ago we chronicled the fact that Hon. John D. Stewart, of Spalding county, had resigned his seat in the legislature. It is to be presumed that his course was prompted by the fact that he was a candidate for the congressional nomination. An election has not yet been ordered by Judge Hunt, but it will be in good time, and we cannot see how Spalding can honor herself more conspicuously than by renominating Colonel Stewart. He is one of the best men in the state, and richly deserves to be re-elected to fill the vacancy created by his resignation.

Yellow Fever Summary.

Our telegrams show for the past 24 hours the following number of deaths: Grenada, 7; Baton Rouge, 1; New Orleans, 59; Memphis—Friday, 113; Saturday, 117; Vicksburg, 23.

Mr. Stephens Seriously Ill.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

AUGUSTA, September 14.—Hon. A. H. Stephens is again very ill. Had two hemorrhages from the lungs. Dr. Steiner was telegraphed for and went up on the train to-day. This is the first time he has ever had a hemorrhage from the lungs. M.

THE ENNIS BROTHERS.

Chief Deputy J. W. Anderson and a Posse of Thirty Men on the Trail—To be Captured Dead or Alive.

The late difficulties between the United States officials and the illicit distillers in Hancock county, have created quite an excitement at the headquarters of the United States marshal in this city. Col. O. P. Fitzsimons, chief United States marshal, telegraphed to Captain John W. Anderson, chief deputy of the southern district, authorizing him to go in person to Milledgeville and to assist in the arrest of the Ennis brothers. Captain Anderson arrived at Milledgeville yesterday, and telegraphed to Colonel Fitzsimons that he had without difficulty organized a posse of thirty men and would start out immediately in pursuit of the Ennis brothers. We are informed that Captain Anderson was warmly received upon his arrival at the old capital and that he found no difficulty in raising the requisite number of men to accompany him. In fact, he found a good deal of indignation existing among the residents of that and adjoining counties with references to the late outrage. The people seemed to regard the affair that demanded attention and were perfectly willing to assist the marshal in arresting the perpetrators of the lawless act. They disconntenanced the entire affair in the strongest terms and expressed a desire to see the parties implicated arrested as soon as possible and punished in the most rigid form. There is no doubt but that with the able assistance at hand the day is not far distant when the Ennis brothers will be in the clutches of the law.

ORGANIZE A POSSE

AS AN OUTRAGE

Captain John Milledge of the Governor's Guards, Resigns.

Captain John Milledge commanding that very fine military organization the "Governors Guards," has resigned his commission. The reasons impelling him to this reluctant step is of a private character. As receiver and auditor of the city of Atlanta, and president of the Benevolent house, he has all of the public duty that he can well attend to, while his law practice occupies the remainder of his time. These thi gs render it impossible for Capt Milledge to serve the company, as he feels they ought to be served by a commanding officer.

The manner in which Capt Milledge has performed the duties of captain is shown by the endorsement of Major Henderson upon his resignation as follows: "In this acceptance, permit me to say, governor, that the military of Atlanta has lost from its midst a skilled soldier, a wise counsellor, and a finished gentleman."

A handsome compliment, gracefully paid, and worthily bestowed.

THE EQUINOCTIAL RAGE.

Destruction in Various Parts of the Country.

WASHINGTON, September 14—Dispatches from various points in Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and as far north as Canada, give accounts of destructive gales, accompanied by heavy rains, causing extensive damages to railroads, canals and other property, and in some instances

LOSS OF LIFE

Much anxiety is felt in Richmond, Va., owing to reports from Lynchburg that the water in the James river is rising rapidly. A number of merchants doing business in the lower part of the former city, near the river, are removing their goods, in anticipation of a swamping freshet. Staunton river bridge, on the Virginia Midland railroad, between Lynchburg and Danville; two bridges over the Roanoke river, between Salem and Big Spring; one at Dry Hollow, on the Mississippi and Ohio railroad have been

WASHED AWAY.

A dispatch from Covington, on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, says, Jackson river is higher than at any time before, except in November last. Contributions for the fever sufferers are still being reported from all sections of the country.

THE TRACK OF THE STORM.

Advices from points in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, indicate a storm for the past two days—the most severe experienced for years. On the line of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad serious damage was inflicted. A fireman, brakesman and engineer were killed by washouts. A bridge on the Panhandle route was washed away, and a freight train plunged into the stream; the engineer and fireman have not been seen since. No trains have passed Steubenville, on the Panhandle, Pittsburg, Wheeling and Kentucky, or Cleveland and Pittsburg roads. The Ohio at Steubenville in 24 hours; 8 inches of rain fell in the same time, and at Youngstown, Ohio, 7 inches at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The residents on streets in the vicinity of the Mahoning river are being removed from their dwellings in boats. On Mahoning avenue the water is 8 feet deep. Several small dwellings were swept away like drift wood. The county commissioners state that the loss to the county in ruined bridges will reach $100,000. The following are

ROSE 16 FEET

ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYED:

Brown, Bonnell & Co's. rolling mill, the Morse bridge works, Dingle & Co., lumbermen, Nimrod furnace, and Andrews furnace. At Mechanicsville, near Painesville, Ohio, a dam gave way and a number of houses were inundated. At Salem, a bridge fell with an engine and two cars upon it. The engineer and brakesman was severely injured. Near Alliance, Richard Teelers, engineer of a coal train, had both legs broken. The fireman was severely injured by running into the chasm left by a bridge which was swept away. The Kanawha river is higher than in the flood of 1861, and is still rising—overflowing a portion of Charleston, West Virginia, and the Kanawha valley. It is sweeping with it the new steamer, Advance, and numberless lumber rafts, &c.

THE VIRGINIA FLOODS.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

RICHMOND, September 15.—The flood in the James river at Lynchburg reached its highest at two o'clock yesterday morning, since which time the water has been falling. The water from that section caused a rise at this point of ten feet and the river is still rising, but no serious apprehensions are felt.

Moonshiners Routed.

NASHVILLE, September 14.—Collector Woodcock has received a letter announcing the destruction of one of the largest illicit distilleries yet found in this district. It has has a capacity of 400 gallons. The distilling apparatus is valued at $1 000 It is located near a place called Sneaktown, in a neighboring county.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XL. ATLANTA, GA. SUNDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 15, 1878 NO 79

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

THE WORK OF THE BARNESVILLE CONVENTION.

Six for Hammond, Winding up with All for Hammond—A Model Convention in All its Work.

Six for Hammond!

We know what this means now, but at first we were a little confused about it—(and when I say "we" I mean the Fulton delegation and their accompaniments) we were a little in the dark. Sometimes things looked gloomy and sometimes they looked gloomier; but even when they were gloomiest, the boys—(I trust Dr Spalding will pardon me for taking this liberty with the dignity of his age)—the boys never fa tered. There was

NO VACILLATION.

Their doubt never took the shape of demoralization, and they never dreamed of disaster. Discussing the probabilities in their own minds, perhaps the delegates were somewhat nervous and excited when they considered the financial resultbut no man knew it. The extent of their anxiety they kept to themselves, and if they had any fears they were concealed beneath the cheerfulness and good humor that characterized the Hammond delegation. There were times when it seemed impossible for the pertinacity of the Atlanta delegation to make any impression upon the convention; there were times when it seemed as though nothing seemed to have no perceptible effect. There was something imperious in their patience, and even their good humor and coolness were impressive. When the crisis was reached—when a false step or a word too much would have been fatal, and when I knew the delegation hardly dared breathe, there was nothing to betray their anxiety. They were not even restless. Frank Rice stood meditatively at the door, as though some interesting problem in measurement had attracted his attention—not a wearisome problem, but one easy of solution.

JIM BANKS

sat with his hands folded behind his head, gazing kindly towards the ceiling, the very picture of benignity and satisfaction. I should not have been at all surprised to see him get up in his place and smilingly say to the roof of the house: "Fall in if you want to, but when the dust, and brick and rafters, and rubbish are cleaned away you will find me still for Hammond." Hoke Smith, erect and stalwart, wandered up and down the aisle as placidly as though a tidal wave of contest had passed over him, while Dr. Spalding, the very impersonation of geniality, sat smiling and apparently well contented, saluting an acquaintance here and there and beaming with good humor. He was a power on the floor. He was not only in earnest, but enthusiastic. He was a sort of gauge. Delegates who knew nothing of Hammond could look at Dr Spalding and know that his enthusiasm wouldn't bubble over in behalf of an inferior man. And this is what told in the end. Henry Haney didn't say anything, but the fact that he appeared to have forgotten that there was ever any other candidate than Hammond gave an influence to his silence that was not to be ignored. Flanking the delegation, erect, alert and always ready with timely counsel, sat Captain Harry Jackson and near him was Charley Collier, who, though not a member of the dele ation, remained on the ground to the last.

HARMONY AND GOOD FEELING.

I have already telegraphed you about the committee of conference. It may be inferred from the report made by Colonel Boynton, of Spalding, which was embodied in my dispatch of yesterday, that the committee was somewhat inharmonious, but this is not the fact. I am told by those who participated in the deliberations of the committee that its proceedings were marked by the same good feeling that characterized the convention itself. In this connection it is proper to note that the delegates of the convention, in spite of the apparent lack of unanimity, were altogether in favor of harmony. The friends of each candidate cheerfully conceded that the opposing candidates were good men, and they were ready to yield their personal preference to the will of the body. It is a little remarkable that, notwithstanding the opposition represented by one hundred and ninety ballots, not an unkind word was said and not an incident occurred to interrupt the spirit of kindliness which characterized the deliberations Everybody was willing to concede largely to the preferences of everybody else, and the protracted balloting went on in the best of humor.

THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE.

The little speech of Hoke Smith, seconding the motion for a committee of conference, notwithstanding the disadvantage under which it placed the friends of Colonel Hammond, accomplished much good, and the committee unexpectedly helped us by developing the fact that Hammond was by all odds the strongest man in the convention. The Fulton delegation were not slow to take advantage of this fact and the result shows how they gradually, and without any undue effort, brought the body around to the support of Hammond. After the committee of conference had made its report, the balloting continued for a few moments, until finally Miller, of Houston proposed that the Duncan and Stewart men retire for the purpose of consulting together. When they returned, Judge Speer, of Spalding, rose and said:

"Mr. Chairman: In conformity to instructions from the committe of conference, whose report has already been made by you, I beg to offer the following platform of principles As it is in my own handwriting, it will probably facilitate matters if I read it where I stand."

Judge Speer then read the following

PLATFORM OF PRINCIPLES:

Resolved, By the delegates of the fifth congressional district in convention assembled that we deem it the duty of every democrat of the district, to put upon record the following as our platform of principles upon the subject of our national finances:

1. That we demand the contraction of the currency—that has brought so much ruin and disaster upon the agricultural, commercial and manufacturing interests of the country, and we do demand, of the banks of congress, the repeal of the resumption act

2. We endorse and demand the removal, by congress, of all restrictions in the coinage of silver, and the re-establishment of silver as a money-metal the same as gold.

3. We favor the gradual substitution of United States legal tender paper for national bank notes and the issuance of establishment as the paper money of the country—made receivable for all dues to the government, and of equal tender with coin, in the amount of each issue to be so regulated by law as to give the people assurance of stability in the volume of the currency and consequent stability of the value—no further increase in the bonded debt and no further sale of bonds for the purchase of coin for resumption purposes.

Resolved, further, That we approve and endorse the action of the bonds sold due by the federal government as they fall due in the currency of the government where the same are not payable in coin by the original contract We favor forced retrenchment, extinction of the public debt—rigid economy—the reduction of expenditures in all branches of the public service, and a tariff for revenue only.

Colonel Alston then said: Mr. Chairman, I have a substitute which I desire to offer. It is a reso ution based upon the democratic platform made at St. Louis, and embodies substantially the views of the national democratic party.

Colonel A ston then read his substitute. A motion to lay the original resolution and the substitute upon the table was made by Colonel Barry, of DeKalb, and voted down.

Judge Speer, of Spalding—I would remind the gentleman from DeKalb that during the past two years the world has moved. The people have progressed. We are not here to consider what has been, but what is to be

The platform of principles was thereupon adopted with two dissenting voices, and in the midst of enthusiastic applause. When quiet was somewhat restored Col. Boynton, of Spalding, arose and said:

"Mr Chairman and gentlemen of the convention: The delegates who have supported the Hon C D Sharp, of Monroe, and those who have supported the Hon John D Stewart, have consulted together for the purpose of arriving at some conclusion looking to the breaking down of what seems to us to be a deadlock. The friends of Colonel Stewart have already made every occasion that the situation seemed to suggest, but they propose to go still further. They are here for the purpose of harmony and the interests of the only organization that has saved the state and that can save it again. I (em my) propose to withdraw the name of Colonel Stewart from the contest and in the mention of his name I say a word or two more and these are a sufficient eulogy of any man. I say this for to be made, we are ready to make it I therefore withdraw the name of Hon John D. Stewart."

When the applause had subsided, Hon. Buford Davis, of Houston, arose and said:

Mr President and Gentlemen of the Convention: In those dark days of misrule—of the triumph of wrong—the oppression of liberty and justice—Houston county justly won renown as the staunch supporter of democracy; the intrepid advocate and defender of liberty. She has lost none of her energy, and together with them Inspirated by her past triumphs she will maintain what she won. When the democracy of this district trembled in its weakness as it stricken by defeat, when it grew crushed beneath the iron hand of power, fraud and the bayonet, Houston, though having to overcome four-fold the odds of other sections, with heroic devotion to the cause of democracy, by her vote in the convention, gave to them the standard bearer whose local personal popularity was understood to be necessary to democratic success. She accepted with pride the position thus assigned her (unaided, against tremendous odds,) to work out her own redemption. She vindicated the trust reposed in her By the patriotism of her people she earned the proud title of the banner democratic county of the banner democratic state. Now that the party has risen to be a giant, as invincible as of old were the annointed of the Lord, she come with confidence to ask at your hands her dues. It would have been the deepest of ingratitude for her to have neglected or to forgotten that a large measure of her triumphs were due to the sagacious counsel, the political foresight, the determined leadership of one of her sons. In splendid talents, in statesmanly ability, in patriotic services he was the peer of any man. If nominated his course in congress would redound to the honor of his district and his state. Sine adrocated his nomination, not that she opposed the other distinguished gentlemen who were candidates before this body—they are her friends, democrats tried and true, whom she knows, but she loves Duncan more. As this convention has decided adversely to her claims as another is evidently your preference, with the patriotic design of harmony that has ever animated her, she submits without a murmur to your decision. She will be true to her motto, and because she has never known enmity; she will smother no spirit of peace, because your preference was ever her friend. With the spirit, the alacrity she has ever exhibited, she will proceed to roll up for him a majority limited alone by the number of her votes. Let the record alone of Clinton C. Duncan be his eulogist. His services were not local, they were as extensive as the limits of his beloved state, as generous as the hearts of the people he served, without the hope of other reward than the securing of the welfare and happiness of his country As he has served with a brave and chivalrous patriotism in the past so in the future his every act will be guided by the patriot's sense of duty. His course in the coming canvass will meet the anticipation of his friends, will reflect renewed lustre upon him and honor upon them. He will be no laggard in the zealous support of your nominee. In this as in every measure that looks to the welfare of the party and the country, you will find in him a faithful indefatigable and skilful supporter. A born leader, he never falters at difficulties, a born democrat, he is never turned aside by personal disappointments. Houston, in withdrawing him from the contest gave her ballot for the Hon. N. J. Hammond, of Fulton.

The applause that followed these remarks of Mr. Davis shook the hall to its foundations. It is impossible, even in a verbatim report to do justice to the impressiveness of Mr Davis's remarks. They were received with the greatest enthusiasm.

Colonel Boynton—I move, now, Mr Chairman, that the Hon N J Hammond, of the county of Fulton, be nominated by acclamation. (Loud cheers.)

Mr Collier, of Houston—I second the motion. Whereupon, everybody went wild, and Colonel Hammond was nominated not only by acclamation of the delegates, but by everybody in the hall. It was unanimous enough to suit everybody, and everybody was suited. It began "Six for Hammond," and ended thirty-four for Hammond. J. C. H.

AN ENDORSEMENT OF THE NOMINEE ALREADY.

Speeches by Col. Hammond, Gov. Colquitt, Hon. E. H. Hill and other Gentlemen.

In pursuance of the notice given in yesterday's CONSTITUTION of a serenade to Hon. N. J. Hammond, the nominee of the Barnesville convention, a number of the friends of Mr. Hammond assembled in THE CONSTITUTION office at four o'clock yesterday evening to arrange the programme for the congratulatory proceedings. Mr. James F. Alexander was called to the chair and Mr Charles A. Collier was requested to act as secretary. It was reported to the meeting that Col. Hammond's wife was very ill, and it was deemed prudent to invite Mr. Hammond to the Kimball house. A committee was appointed to make suitable arrangements for the meeting at night; as also a committee to procure a band, and another to invite speakers. Dr. Alexander, Col. B. F. Abbott and Col. E. F. Hoge were appointed a committee of arrangements to conduct the proceedings at the Kimball house. Several distinguished men accepted an invitation to participate in the proceedings. It was impossible to procure a band in the city. The committee telegraphed to Jonesboro for the Jonesboro band, but it was too late to make arrangements for it. At 8¾ o'clock a large crowd collected in the rotunda of the Kimball house. The audience was composed of the best men in the city.

called them to order, and stated that it was the purpose of the friends of Mr Hammond to go to his home to present their congratulations, but that it was not prudent to do so, as his wife was ill, and hence they had changed the programme, and met at this place. He then introduced Hon N J Hammond. He was received with considerable applause

MR. HAMMOND'S REMARKS.

Fellow-citizens: This is a new role to me. For nearly a century I have been content to been addressing the people of Atlanta, but it has been in other people's causes This is almost the first time that I have been called before you to plead my own cause.

Some weeks ago, at the request of some of my friends, I consented to become a candidate for congress from this district. After the usual preliminaries, at which you are fully aware, you elected delegates primarily pledged to my support This was only the beginning. It was but the introduction to a contest before a convention of delegates chosen of representative men from a full dozen of counties, each distinguished for the intelligence and patriotism of its people. Each county, I say, with a firm, undivided front. One county, like all family disputes, should be settled among ourselves.

Keeping in view the past work and the future mission of the democracy for good government, let us hope that the patriotic example of cordial harmony displayed in your own central district will awaken a hearty response not only from the rest of our own beloved state, but throughout the whole broad limits. [Applause.]

Colonel Doyal made a stirring speech, which produced a fine impression.

HON. B. H. HILL'S SPEECH.

Fellow-citizens—This is indeed an occasion for congratulation and rejoicing; and yet, speaking for myself, I must confess that it is not unmixed with some regret and sadness. When I think of the gentleman who has received the nomination of our district convention, I rejoice with all my heart; when I think of the noble men who were not nominated at that convention, I feel a profound regret

The gentleman who is your present representative, and who has been your representative for nearly two terms of congress, I take pleasure in saying, from personal observation of his course, that he has made you an able, true and faithful representative. [Applause.] He has justified your fullest confidence; and the patriotic manner in which he withdrew his name at an early stage of the convention, is the evidence of his patriotic desire to sacrifice every personal interest for the good of his constituency. [Applause.] When you know Milton Candler as I have learned to know him, from intimate association for the past few years, you will find that there are few better men. [Applause.]

So with my friend from Spalding county, Colonel John D. Stewart. I have known him for years. I have met him in debate and in the court house often. I know him privately and publicly, and I can say that he would do no man or no earth can control it.

I hope I think that the democratic party can never be killed. [Applause] Secession did not kill it, the war has not killed it, fraud has not killed it, he has not killed itself, and it will not die. [Applause]

Here is the point to which I want to direct the attention of my friends It is natural that after this sectional republican party has been in power eighteen years it should have passed a great many things that bear heavily on the prosperity of the country. Look at the disaster, sorrow, derangement, confusion financially and otherwise all over the country. That is true. They are all results of republican power. There is a world-spread, terrible as I consider it. A sectional, unconstitutional case legislating party can not dominate over this country eighteen years without producing misery to the people, and the republican party has produced them as results

We are all anxious to remedy these results. We want to restore prosperity to the country. But is natural in seeking a remedy for these great evils that we among ourselves should differ. Independent, honest, thinking men on such questions as this will differ. Take this financial question. The republican party degraded it and the trouble which sprung out of it, and it can't keep it degraded. Then we come to remedy this, one democrat thinks that one means is better than another What do we differ about? Not in the belief that the evil exists; not in the belief that the country is suffering; not in the belief that a remedy is necessary. All that we differ about is what is the remedy. That being the case, what is the duty I say to you is this. The only power in this country that can give efficiency to any of these remedies, is the democratic party. You cannot expect any remedy to come from the republican party because it produced the mischief. You cannot expect it to come from third party, because to have any strength it must be composed largely of the republican party, and what the republican party cannot cure in its own name, it cannot cure under any other, and no party can give relief to the country but the democratic party (applause) And here is my proposition: If you and I differ as to the remedy for these evils, let us agree on this, that we will stick to the party You cannot carry out any remedy otherwise; you cannot hope to accomplish it otherwise If you do not propose to do so by the democratic party, how will you do? You must do it by some other party What other party must you rely on? As I said, you must go to the dying republicans or organize a new party to be composed largely of the republican party and its controlling element to be of that party

Fellow Citizens: Have you honest views? I have my views I do not exhibit what I think will be the remedy for these evils. You and I may differ Then let us make the democratic party the arbiter between you and me. Let both go before the democratic party and say to you that while I have my judgment as to the remedy, if the democratic party differs with me on that subject, I am going to agree with the democratic party. [Applause.]

Now, my friends, you who differ with me, who are you going to differ with? Are you going to differ with the party? If you do you will be as wise as a preacher who read a text different from some previous comments he had made, and said: "I beg leave to differ with the text." [Laughter.] He neither injured the Lord nor established the correctness of his position. I assure you that you cannot correct the evils otherwise. You cannot by any other means than by voting to sustain the democratic party, the party which includes the intelligence and patriotism of the country from one end to the other.

It is going to call into action the organized efforts of this country If you refuse to act with the democratic party you fight it, and if you put yourself against it you must expect to be beaten. If you all these miserable ears inflicted by the republican party will be rubbed out; I tell you the starved will have bread and the naked will have clothing. Every one of you will be the citizen of a happy and prosperous nation once more. This country is on the eve of prosperity never before known, unless some excessively great madness shall seize upon her. I don't mind how men talk; I don't mind how men differ All I wish is that men shall not break ranks. Let the soldiers talk; let them differ, but don't let them break ranks. Follow your leader You have him. He has been given you by an honest convention, and the unspoken voice of the people of this district, and it is your duty to follow him. I do not ask you abandon any peculiar feelings you may have, while you may indulge your views and convince as many as you please that you are right. All I say is, keep in step to the order, and I tell you victory will come, and it will not make much difference as to our peculiar theories. I have my peculiar views, and I believe that they will be ultimately adopted but I believe that the democratic party is wiser than I am, and if they are not right I don't want them adopted. When they adopt a remedy that is going to be the remedy. It is impossible for pen to picture or tongue to describe the prosperity we shall see two years and two years more. And why shouldn't we wait? Haven't we suffered alike—haven't we been wronged alike? And after we have suffered all the privations and misery of the last few years, shall we break ranks just as the eye fall upon Canaan? Advocate your views with your fellow-citizens, but go to the ballot-box like men, and fall into the democratic line. [Applause.]

Judge Trippe then spoke, and at the conclusion of his speech, Dr Alexander read the following telegram from Col. J. D. Stewart. It had been sent by him in reply to an invitation to be present on the occasion:

GRIFFIN, GA., September 14.

Capt J W Engle and others—Engagements for to-night Can't come I abide the action of the Barnesville convention Organization and harmony is the way to success.

J. D. STEWART.

The reading of this telegram was received with applause.

The meeting then adjourned.

COPY I

WHITESBURG, GA., September 10.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: — Inasmuch as Col. W. O. Tuggle, before the committee appointed by the Columbus convention to investigate the claims of the two sets of delegates from Carroll county to seats therein, did pronounce the certificate and affidavit of Sylvanus Hembree, submitted to said committee, "an infamous lie and a forgery" and charged before said committee that I was the author thereof, I beg leave, through the columns of your paper, to give to the public a brief statement of my action in the premises. The certificate was written by myself, having been requested by Mr. Hembree to copy the same for him, and he, Hembree, assigned the same himself. The affidavit attached thereto was in Mr. Hembree's own hand write, and was sworn to and subscribed by himself in the presence of various parties, and before W. C. Aycock, an acting justice of the peace in and for this county (Carroll) all of which will fully appear by the statement hereto appended of the various parties, and of Sylvanus Hembree and the justice of the peace, W. STATE OF GEORGIA, CARROLL COUNTY. I hereby certify that the above statement of John S. Pentecost is in every particular correct; and I further certify that the certificate with my signature attached, submitted to the committee appointed by the Columbus convention to pass upon the claims of the Carroll delegation to seats in that convention, contained nothing but facts, but was a revelation of no more of Mr. Tuggle's suggestions than I deemed sufficient to vindicate the character of my friend, the chairman of the democratic executive committee of this county. But this was not all that Mr. Tuggle said in reference to the use of money in controlling the action of the Columbus convention, the revealing of which should arouse the virtuous indignation of some of the delegates composing the Columbus convention toward Mr. Tuggle if they were not in complicity with him, or if otherwise with shame at having, for party pelf, agreed to misrepresent their constituents in the selection of a candidate to represent them in the next congress of the United States.

THE RICH MEN OF MEMPHIS.

The Avalanch thus plainly givese its opinion of the hard hearted rich men of that city whose meanness is actually glittering:

There are many rich men in Memphis. It is not necessary to name them. Their names to almost every family in the city are household words. These rich men have not been conspicuous in contributions to save us from starvation in this our hour of great extremity. We who are here are suffering for the want of the necessaries of living every day. But we do mean to say in plain English, that Memphis has one other curse than the plague, and that curse is her rich men. We mean, selfish penurionsness, we think the rich men of Memphis can beat the world, ancient or modern, and there is not a man standing here to-day to deny the charge. Not one of all history that will not indorse this sentiment.

THE TEMPLETONS.

The Fay Templeton star alliance troupe will appear at the opera house to morrow night This troupe has commanded fine attention wherever it has appeared Fay Templeton is a favorite wherever she goes, and Miss Alice Vane never fails to win the admiration and applause of the audience upon all occasions. The troupe is composed of fifteen artists of rare ability, under the management of John Templeton, who is a favorite with every one. We hope to see a fine audience in attendance at the opera house. The play will be "Lost Love, or Good-Bye Sweetheart." Last evening we received the following telegram from John Templeton, which will explain itself:

GAINESVILLE, September 14.—Editors Constitution: Please announce in Sunday's CONSTITUTION that the Fay Templeton Star Alliance troupe are at the service of the fever relief committee for the gross receipts of the matinee benefit and half the proceeds of the night's performance. JOHN TEMPLETON.

TO YORK-BURG.

The Count deLion commandery No. 4 K. T. sent $47 25 to Vicksburg yesterday.

GATE CITY GUARDS DONATI N.

On yesterday we were handed $30 00 by a committee of the Gate City Guards to be forwarded to Memphis for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers.

Among the many generous donations which have been made for this cause, none is more gratifying than that which comes from the Gate City Guards. Standing in the front rank of every military enterprise, they have now come forward with equal zeal to the assistance of suffering humanity. This is the first contribution from a military company, and we command the example as one worthy to be followed.

LECTURE.

Rev E J Adams, formerly missionary in Africa will deliver a lecture at Friendship Baptist church Monday night, 16 h inst., and at Wheat street A M E church Tue day night, 17th inst at 8 o'clock. His subject is, "Is it wise or practicable for colored people of the southern states or the United States, to emigrate to Africa, en masse?" The question to be discussed in the negative. Admission 10 cts. Proceeds for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers.

A CARD GIVEN.

Mr. G. C. Young has donated a beautiful stick made of six-foot piece, to be sold for the sufferers.

ANOTHER KIND DONATION.

Mr. F. W. Bath has donated six of his best white pine doors to be sold for the benefit of the sufferers.

A LIBERAL MAN.

The gentleman who gave $45 for the toilet set at the Rossini concert is from New Orleans. We really think the audience allowed him to monopolize too much of the world of giving.

SALE OF COAL.

The car load of coal Creek coal given to the yellow fever fund by Mr F E Edwards, will be sold to the highest bidder by F E Ellis on Tuesday, the 16th inst., at 11 o'clock, a m. Amos Fox, Secretary Citizens' Com.

MARIETTA MOVING.

We are informed that on Tuesday night next there will be a grand illumination and concert at the Whitlock residence in Marietta for the benefit of yellow fever sufferers. Mr. G. Whitlock has thrown open the grounds adjoining his handsome mansion, which will be brilliantly illuminated with Chinese lanterns and other transparencies. In the spacious parlors under the hospitable roof there will be given a superb concert. In addition to those who reside in Marietta who will take part, a number of ladies and gentlemen of Atlanta will go up and add to the attractions of the occasion. We hear of many fine voices that will be on hand and doubtless the concert will be the grandest ever produced in our sister city. When the concert is concluded a hop will take place. The services of a fine string band has been secured and most delightful dancing music will be rendered.

The Western & Atlantic railroad will sell round trip tickets at one dollar each, good to return the following day. Doubtless the many attractions of the evening, together with the cause for which the entertainment is intended, will carry up quite a number from this city, and the proceeds will reach a handsome sum, which will be at once forwarded to the yellow fever sufferers.

SUPPLYING CLOTHING.

The ladies are requested to contribute clothing for the orphans at Memphis. All contributions left at the office of Dodson & Scott, 20 Broad st, will be promptly forwarded by the committee.

T. A. B SOCIETY.

The members of St. Patrick's T. A. B society propose to give a ball on next Tuesday night at the hall of the Irish Literary association for the benefit of the Catholics of Memphis, their brethren in that city having appealed to them for aid. The Father Mathew society of that city has under their charge 165 families.

To the Ladies and Gentlemen of Atlanta:

Among the appeals of the yellow fever stricken cities none are more distressing, and none indicate more fully the terrible sufferings existing there, than those asking for clothing for the destitute sick.

In the endeavor to prevent the spread of the fever infected clothing is destroyed, and in all the plague stricken cities the direst need for clothing exists. The need is a present one—delay in supplying it causes suffering and death. Garments of every kind and size, for men, women and children, will pack and deliver in Memphis, Grenada county, who have kindly offered free transportation, each day all boxes sent me. Would suggest that each package be well wrapped, labeled, and contents noted, so as that the relief committee at destination may know the contents without opening; also, that men, women and children's clothing be put up in separate packages. Please send by express if proper hospitals without loss of time, name of donor and where to be sent.

SCIENTIFIC ASSOCIATION RELIEF COMMITTEE.

By a thorough canvass of portions of four streets there was collected yesterday:

Cash	$152 25
In goods at a fair valuation	276 95
Total	$429 20

The committee estimate that it will require four more day's work to finish canvassing the city, and on the 20th instant it is proposed to have a grand auction of the articles contributed, consisting of groceries, dry goods, shoes, wines, liquors, cigars, sewing machines, clocks, paintings, &c. Many others have promised to send their donations on Monday to the store room No. 32 Whitehall street, which will be open every day for the reception of goods. Let every citizen of Atlanta contribute liberally to this humane object.

Mr. Tom Wilson, superintendent and manager of the western and Atlantic railroad, has kindly offered to send all of the contributions to Memphis free of charge. His kindness in this particular is only in keeping with his benevolent acts on every day occurrence.

The Constitution.

ATLANTA, GA.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPTEMB 1 5, 1878

BLAINE'S annual sunstroke is due.

THERE must be harmony in the fifth district.

SIX for Hammond! All for Hammond.

THERE is no cyclone big enough to do justice to Kearney.

THE Maine republicans took their goose roasted and well done.

THERE was a little man and his name was Blaine, who lived in a state that was known as Maine

THE members of the Newnan convention ought to perfect themselves in the manual of arms. They will have some lively skirmishing to do.

THE average republican in the seventh district is in a bad fix. He is compelled to choose between Holtzclaw and Felton. The true democrats are still for Lester.

JUDGE A. R. WRIGHT says he is in favor of accomplishing all financial reforms inside the democratic party. This is the only way to accomplish them.

THROUGH the efforts of Mr. J. C. McMichael, of the Gazette, the reporters in attendance upon the Barnesville convention were provided with every convenience.

AN independent greenback movement is merely a device to deceive voters. The intentions of its leaders are plain enough to those who will take the trouble to work out the problem on a slate.

IT is rumored that certain of the greenbackers propose to put powder in the democratic pipe. Wouldn't it be well to save this ammunition to fire at the republicans? There is no excuse for any lack of harmony.

THOSE who have read the advanced sheets say that the Griffin Sun charges that the candidature of Holtzclaw is an Atlanta movement. We print this as a piece of information. What does the editor of the Columbus Enquirer think about it? We want to get the news.

THE MADISON HOME JOURNAL.

This excellent weekly, in the hands of Dr. J. C. C. Blackburn, is constantly growing in popularity and influence. Early in October Dr. Blackburn will issue a trade paper with 1,000 extra copies. It will afford all our merchants a fine opportunity for advertising in a section whose trade Atlanta controls. The trade issue of the Home Journal will be unusually attractive.

A NEW JUDGE FOR THE PATAULA CIRCUIT.

Judge W. D. Kiddoo, who has been for several years judge of the Pataula circuit, has resigned, and Gov. Colquitt yesterday appointed Col. Arthur Hood, of Cuthbert, his successor. Judge Kiddoo was one of the best judges of the superior court in the state, and has discharged the responsible duties of his office with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of his people. Col. Hood, the newly appointed judge, is one of the ablest members of the bar from his circuit. He is well known to all our people. He will be a candidate before the legislature for election, as the judge of his circuit is to be elected by the next legislature.

A WORD TO THE PLANTERS.

Elsewhere will be found a card from a number of merchants in this city, in regard to a brand of bagging.

It appears that these merchants have been directly misled by the Western bagging company, or its agents; and have sold a large amount of bagging that they wish to recall. They make an offer that the country merchants and farmers must accept as perfectly fair and liberal.

It is proper to put the planters on notice that they need not pack their cotton in jute bagging and expect to market it. The jute bagging stains the cotton, and is insufficient protection. It has been ruled out by the leading exchanges, and cotton put up in it is not easily available. Those planters who have bought this bagging had best return it, and secure a good article.

The merchants seem to have a good case against the Western bagging company, and their treatment of this company will be welcomed all over the country as a man'y protest against the too common habit of misrepresenting goods, and will go very far towards stopping the ugly habit.

HON. N. J. HAMMOND.

The nomination of Colonel N. J. Hammond by the Barnesville convention will give universal satisfaction not only throughout the district, but throughout the state. He is one of our ablest, purest and best men, and his nomination is another argument in favor of conventions and the true democracy. No better man could have been selected. His reputation and his standing are such that the mere mention of his name is calculated to recall that is lofty in purpose and aspirations, all that is pure in principle, all that is unimpeachable in integrity, and all that is influential and commanding in intellect. The democracy of the district may well congratulate itself. No party ever had a worthier representative—no cause a more unflinching champion.

We print elsewhere the platform of principles adopted by the Barnesville convention. It is from the pen of Judge Alexander M. Speer, of Griffin, and embodies in few words everything that the people need or demand in the way of financial reform. It affords no excuse whatever for an independent greenback movement, and it will be endorsed most heartily by all who are really in favor of the financial relief which if is the purpose of the greenback democrats to bring about. The triumph of Hammond means the triumph of the doctrines held by Thurman and Pendleton.

THE COTTON CROP OF '77-'78.

We have received the annual circular of the Financial and Commercial Chronicle of New York, which gives the usual review of the cotton crop of the year. There are many important facts connected with the crop of the year just closed that we [illegible] tall.

The total of the crop is [illegible] ly 6,311,335 bales. The C[illegible] presents surprise of the [illegible] —an unnecessary emotion, [illegible] when we remember that [illegible] passes the Chronicle's est[illegible] 000 bales.

The method of arriving [illegible] is quite simple. The Ch[illegible] the receipts of each [illegible] and adds them [illegible] It then takes [illegible] of overland shipments, de[illegible] it what is shipped from [illegible] total receipts of these has [illegible] counted. The net overla[illegible] are then added to the [illegible] outports. The item of [illegible] consumption is made up [illegible] added to the total. Items [illegible] the details of this total [illegible] Savannah shipped a [illegible] amount this year than she [illegible] while Charleston's shipme[illegible] siderably smaller than [illegible]

Touching the consump[illegible] year the Chronicle says [illegible] the cotton trade of the [illegible] through an experience [illegible] of this year. [illegible] consumption made [illegible] left the supply of [illegible] far short of the need for [illegible] all through the year [illegible] ity has predicted a scarcity, [illegible] almost a cotton famine [illegible] son closed. That these [illegible] have not been realized is [illegible] of history—slow trade, short [illegible] spindles in almost every country of the world, being in brief the explanation.

The question of chief interest to-day is, to what extent is this to be the experience of the coming year. So far as Europe is concerned, we cannot see any very encouraging signs of a revival of the cotton goods trade. We think it has been greatly overdone during past years, under an unusually stimulated demand; and until the wants of the world in up to the present spinning power, or we have another unnatural exhibition of its consuming capacity, we must expect slow trade. We have not space here to enlarge upon these subjects. On another occasion we have fully explained the position as we view it. It may be epitomized in the simple statement that the spinning power of the world in 1875 was about 2,000,000,000 pounds (5,000,000 bales of 400 pounds each), and now it is over 3,000,000,000 pounds, or 7,500,000 bales of same weight. Nothing but the world-wide speculation, fostered, first, by the high price of cotton; next, by the inflation, delusion and fancied wealth in the United States; next, by our borrowing millions upon millions from Europe, and throwing them back with lavish hand for productions at highly remunerative prices; next, the general rise in the value of commodities almost the world over, and, finally, of wages—nothing less than all these circumstances combined could have produced such results as these figures indicate. And is it not evident that it will require more months yet of re-adjustments and new developments, before the wheels of this industry can run smoothly and healthfully again?

It notes, however, that the home consumption has increased, and that the home demand for home made goods is much grater than ever before, while the foreign demand for our home made goods is better than it has ever been, showing a steady annual increase. The exports of manufactured goods this year was over one million and a quarter of yards in excess of the shipments of the year before. It is a notable fact too, worthy of the consideration of the greenback communists, that the wages of factory operatives is higher above the cost of living now than they were in 1860. On the other hand the prices of cotton goods are much lower than they were in 1860. The United States mills consumed just 1,546,298 bales of the crop of 4,811,365 bales, being an excess of 111,000 bales over the consumption of last year. Of the total amount consumed at home the south took 148,000 bales, (or about one-twelfth,) being an increase of 1,000 bales over last year.

The figures show that this is the earliest crop received in many years. Despite the yellow fever, which has retarded the forward movement the receipts this year are 20,750 bales against 2,467 bales last year, and against 9,786 bales in 1872, the earliest year recorded. It may fairly be believed therefore that trade will open this year several weeks earlier than before for years.

As a number of the employees of the place have been seen drunk, the supposition is that they were misled by the label on the jugs, and that they did not discover until too late the nature of their medicine.—Courier Journal.

EDGAR ALLAN POE.

What a San Francisco Knows About Edgar Allan Poe's Death.

San Francisco Chronicle.

"You say that Edgar Allan Poe did not die from the effects of deliberate dissipation?" asked a Chronicle reporter.

"That is just what I mean; and I say further that he died from the effects of deliberate murder."

This was strange assertion—strange in being a flat contradiction of a fact, or otherwise a theory, recorded in detail in the history of American literature. The author of the assertion was a well-known member of the city's advanced inveterate Bohemian, a gentleman who has long since retired from the active pursuits of his profession and spends his days in dreamy meditation, frequenting one of the popular resorts of the craft, but mingling little in the idle babble of the throng. When drawn into conversation it is generally to correct some error from his inexhaustible mine of reminiscence, and on such occasions his words are few and precise.

"Then you know something of the poet and his history, doctor?"

"With a few others I was one of his intimate associates for years. Much that has been written of him and regarding his death is false. Poe wasnot what is called a periodical drunkard, holding himself to spells of total sobriety and then giving way to violent bouts of intemperance; but he was a steady drinker, and when his means permitted he would drink to excess. His habitual resort in Baltimore was the widow Meagher's place. This was an oyster stand and liquor bar on the city front, corresponding in some respects with the coffee-shops in San Francisco. It was frequented much by the printers and men engaged in the shipping offices, and ranked as a respectable place, where parties could read the papers, enjoy a game of cards or engage in social conversation. Poe was a great favorite with the old woman. You would always see him sitting just behind the oyster stand, and about as quiet and sociable as an oyster himself. He went by the name of the "Bard," and when parties came into the shop it was 'Bard, come up and take a nip,' or 'Bard take a hand in the game.' He was a sort of pensioner on his acquaintances, as far as drinks are concerned. When near the old woman met with any incident or idea that tickled her fancy she would ask Bard to versify it. Poe always complied, writing many a witty couplet, and at times poems of considerable length. Much of his poetical work, quite as meritorious as some by which his name was immortalized, was thus frittered into obscurity. It was in this little shop that Poe's attention was called to an advertisement in a Philadelphia paper of a prize for a meritorious story, and it was here that he composed his famous 'Gold Bug,' which took the prize. I heard him read it before he sent it on to Philadelphia, and when it was announced that his story was successful the widow Meagher gave him the money to go on to claim the prize."

"And how about his death?"

"Poe had been shifting between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York for several years. He had been away from Baltimore for about three months and turned up one evening at the widow's. I was there when he came in. Bard had been making a little raise north, and it was drinks all around, with repeat, until the crowd were down jolly. It was the night before an election, and the party started up town. There were four of us, and we had not gone half a dozen squares before we were nabbed by policemen, who were looking up voters to 'coop.' It was the practice in those days to seize people, whether drunk or sober, lock them up until the polls were opened, and then march them to every precinct in control of the party having the coop. This coop was in the rear of an engine house on Calvert street. It was part of the game to stupefy the prisoners with liquor. The next day we were voted at thirty different places and over and over, it being as much as a man's life was worth to rebel. Poe was so badly drugged that he was carried on two or three rounds, and when the gang said that it was no use trying to vote a dead man any longer, so they shoved him into a cab and sent him to the hospital to get him out of the way."

"Well, he died from dissipation."

"Nothing of the kind. He died from laudanum or some other poison that was forced on him in the coop. He was in a dying condition while he was being voted twenty or thirty times in Baltimore. The story told by Griswold of his having been on a week's spree and being picked up on the street is all a lie. I saw him shoved into the cab myself."

"Well, what about the general character given Poe by Griswold and others?"

"I have nothing to say, only that Poe was a great poet, and he owed me nothing when he died."

A DIVIDED FAMILY.

The Queer Contest Going On between a Father and Three Sons on the One Side, and a Mother and Three Daughters on the Other.

Brooklyn, N. Y., September 12.—Mrs. Louisa R. McAdams recently sued her husband, John McAdams, the well-known inventor of paging and paper ruling machines, for a divorce, alleging cruelty to herself and her daughter. There were six children in the family, and the three daughters supported their mother and the three sons their father. The latter published a card declaring their mother was insane, and her charges proceeded from a disordered mind, while the daughters, in a published card, denied this, and maintained that their mother's accusations against their father were just. Mrs. McAdams lives with her daughters, and is defended by them as being wholly sane, but a commission has been appointed to determine her mental condition.

Webb Hayes's Sweetheart.

New York Sun.

The marriage of Webb C. Hayes and Miss Mary Miller, daughter of Anson G. Miller, cashier of the First National bank, known as Hayes's bank, will soon be celebrated in this village. Miss Miller is a recent graduate of the Fremont High school, nineteen years old, a blonde, tall and plain featured, and as yet unfamiliar with the ways of the world. Mrs. Grundy says that Webb C. Hayes came to Fremont for a double purpose—to enjoy a vacation sacred to paper collars and slip shoes, and to secure an assistant for his mother at her coming winter receptions, Miss Platt being married, and leaving no one in the Hayes family to fill her place. Miss Miller will not prepare an elaborate wardrobe in this neck of the woods, but will wait till Mrs. Hayes goes to New York for her season's outfit, and will have everything prepared under that lady's supervision. The story that Miss Miller has begun to wear her hair like Webb's mother is in no sense true. She bangs it just as other Fremont girls do. As to Mrs. Hayes, she tried crimping her hair last winter, but it was so unbecoming she returned to her usual style.

Some More Trouble.

New York Evening Post.

The Maine law in regard to the election of governor bids fair to work a curious result this year. This law provides that if no candidate receives a majority over all the others at the polls the lower house of the state legislature shall select two of the candidates who have been voted for and send their names to the state senate, with whom the final choice rests. The senate will contain a republican majority, while in the lower house there will probably be a plurality of democrats and greenback men, with more of the latter than the former. Of the names sent up the senate will prefer the democrat. The governor will, therefore, be the candidate who received fewest votes at the polls and fewest votes in the lower house of the legislature. One lesson of this election seems to be that Maine's election law should be changed.

A Substantial Compliment.

Milledgeville Old Capital.

Colonel Furman should feel it a very substantial compliment paid him that the governor has appointed him solicitor of this circuit over so many and worthy competitors. We doubt not Colonel Furman will fill the office acceptably. It is a hard, laborious and oftentimes thankless task; but the incumbent is a man of remarkable industry and vim, and will doubtless meet its every requirement fully. He is a lawyer of good ability and a fervid advocate. He now has the opportunity to advertise his fitness at some of the courts that hold before the meeting of the general assembly. He will have a warm opposition before that body from several candidates in and out of Baldwin county.

About That Gatesgrave.

New York World.

When we wash our republican friends to take notice of is that this cataclysm took place in a state where for a quarter of a century they have had absolute control; in a state where the party is headed by one of the cleverest and most popular of republican chieftains; in a state where the population is largely composed of the honest, upright and highly educated New England yeomanry that republican orators always parade as the type and fine flower of radicalism. It wasn't the "corner-grocery" element nor the "ignorant foreigners" who voted for the national candidates in the pine tree state on Monday last.

When she Died.

New York Graphic.

The republican party as a national organization died—or, rather, the death of that party as a national organization was officially announced—when the president abandoned the party leaders in the southern states and when those leaders thereupon very wisely abandoned the enterprise of sustaining party organizations in those states.

Pharmer Phelton.

Rome Courier.

Dr Felton, who has at different times followed the several professions of pedagogue, preacher, politician and physician, registers himself in the "congressional directory" as a farmer. One might suppose that his proclivity for plying professions commencing with a p, would cause him to spell farmer pharmer, and his own name Phelton.

Bad for the Stars.

New York Sun.

Referring to the election in Maine, Jay Gould's Tribune says the very stars in their courses are fighting for the republican party. If this be so, then we think the returns show that on Monday the stars got the worst of it.

A Fat and a Blow.

New York Sun.

In some of his western speeches brother Blaine patted the fraudulent president patronizing and tenderly on the back. In return for this the people of Maine have dealt Blaine a blow right between the eyes.

The A of the B. B.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The word from Maine gives hope. It shows that the people have awakened to their own interests. It is the apothecois of the rag baby, perhaps, but it shows that the good cause continues to move along.

Red Mariners.

Exchange.

The government is still moving the Indians. The time will come when the noble red man will be "smack" up against the Pacific ocean. The philanthropists will then want to make a sailor out of him.

Henry B. and Dennis K.

Irresponsible Exchange.

Beecher, it has been remarked, has gone to the Pacific coast to abuse Kearney, while Kearney returns the Plymouth pastor's compliment in the east.

A Conundrum.

Cincinnati Commercial.

If Blaine has not saved Maine, what is to save Blaine in 1880?

Five F's.

New York Sun.

Those who preach for prospect of peil prefer politics to the pulpit.

OUR OWN.

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day,
The words unkind
Would trouble my mind
I said when I went away,
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain;
But we vex "our own"
With look and tone
We may never take back again.

For though in the quiet evening
I may give you the kiss of peace,
Yet it might be
That never for me
The heart should cease
How many go forth in the morning
That never come home at night!
And hearts have been broken
By harsh words spoken,
That sorrow can ne'er set right.

We have careful thought for the stranger,
And smiles for the casual guest,
But oft for "our own"
The bitter tone,
Though we love "our own" the best.
Ah, lips with curse impatient!
Ah, brow with that look of scorn!
'Twere a cruel fate
Were the night too late
To undo the work of the morn!

ROUNDABOUT IN GEORGIA.

—Coweta county is building a new jail.

—Real estate is advancing in Greensboro.

—Dawson is at work for the fever sufferers.

—Dodge county has no candidates Fulton has enough for six counties.

—Elberton is afflicted with disorderly negroes every Saturday.

—Tooc a has made a good thing of the summer resort business.

—Crawfordville wants more greenbacks in fractional parts.

—The Washington Gazette is to be enlarged. It is full of spicy reading this week.

—The Oglethorpe Echo is one of the neatest, newsiest and best weeklies we have ever grappled.

—Crawfordville has mineral springs. Nearly every town in Georgia claims such a treasure now.

—Savannah had a severe gale Wednesday night. Trees were severely injured and fences were puffed away by the wind.

—Crawfordville Democrat: By listening any calm, clear night, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening, the plaintive cry of the woodpecker tribe may be heard, as they fly on their journey south. Where they go, or what becomes of them during the winter, we do not know, but they evidently hunt a warmer clime.

—Columbus Times: The vexed question in regard to the delegation from Carroll county is settled, as a special dispatch advises us, by the success of the Henry R Harris ticket at the primary election on Wednesday. We fear that this result will only make the parties more impracticable and increase the difficulty of making a nomination.

—Oglethorpe Echo: A negro man of Mr. Roane's place was last Sunday literally talked to death by visiting friends. He was doing well until that day when, contrary to the doctor's instructions, crowds of negroes flocked in to see and question him. It was more than the poor fellow could stand, so he calmly turned over and gave up the ghost.

—Henry County Weekly: Four hand on Mr. R. W. Warren's place, picked 965 pounds of cotton in ond day not long since. Joe Chappel, one of the number, picked 283 pounds. The man who has been trying to invent a cotton picking machine had as well turn his attention to something else, unless he is prepared to compete with these nimble-fingered professionals.

—Eastman Times: We learn from Allen Evers that a little boy of John Horn, of Pulaski county, had his head crushed and was instantly killed on Friday last by the falling of a cart body upon him. The cart body was standing upon one end and resting slightly against the fence, when the weight of the child, who was about six years, in attempting to climb the body, overturned it, and it fell striking the little on the head with the above results.

—Oglethorpe Echo: A few weeks since some one picked up what he thought to be a green rock, on the plantation of Mrs. Arnold, in the Flat Woods. It was turned over to Mr. W. B. Brightwell, who sent the same to an experienced mineralogist, who wrote him pronouncing it the purest and finest specimen of copper ore he ever saw south of Lake Superior, and says there must be a very valuable mine near where it was found. He intends to visit the spot and try to discover the mine. Oglethorpe is very rich in minerals of all kinds.

—By every consideration of profit and propriety, the blood should be kept absolutely pure by using Dr Bull's Blood Mixture. 243

Relief for the Afflicted

Dr. M. W. CASE'S Liver Remedy AND BLOOD PURIFIER

Tonic and Cordial.

This is not a patent medicine, but is prepared under the direction of Dr. M. W. Case, from his favorite prescription, which in an extensive practice of over twenty-seven years he has found most effective in all cases of disordered liver or impure blood. It is

ANTI-BILIOUS.

It acts directly upon the liver, restoring it when diseased to its normal condition; and in regulating the activity of this great gland every other organ of the system is benefited. In Blood Diseases it has no equal as a purifier. It improves digestion, and assists nature to eliminate all impurities from the system; and while it is the cheapest medicine in the market, it is also superior to all known remedies. While it is more effectual than Blue Mass, it is mild and perfectly safe, containing nothing that can in the slightest degree injure the system. It does not sicken or give pain; neither does it weaken the patient, nor leave the system constipated, as do most other medicines.

It Cures Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Bilious Fever, Headache, Sick Headache, Water-Brash, Heartburn, Sick Stomach, Jaundice, Colic, Vertigo, Neuralgia, Palpitation of the Heart, Female Irregularities and Weakness, all Skin and Blood Diseases, Worms, Fever and Ague, and Constipation of the Bowels.

In small doses it is also a sure cure for Chronic Diarrhœa.

Taken two or three times a day, it prevents Yellow Fever, Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever, Cholera, and Small-Pox.

THE INQUEST.

The Driver Relieved of all Blame in the Matter.

Yesterday an inquest was held by Coroner Wm Ellis on the body of Leon Silverman, the boy who died from injuries received by being run over by a street car on the West End line, near the railroad crossing on Peters street. The coroner with his jury met at the residence of Mr Johnson, where the boy was laying and the inquest was held. Several witnesses were examined. The testimony brought out no new facts in the case. The jury after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict relieving the driver of the car from any blame whatever in the accident.

As soon as the result was arrived at John Hellderbrand, the driver of the car, was released from confinement. It is not likely that the driver of the car will be re-arrested. In fact, we are informed that there will be no prosecution whatever in the matter, as it is perfectly evident from the evidence hat the driver is in no way to blame in the matter, and regrets the occurrence of the accident as much as any one else.

In making mention of the physicians who were in attendance upon young Silverman, we omitted to mention Dr C Rauschenberg, who rendered able assistance during the amputation of the limb of the injured boy.

The Sewer Question.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The very interesting communications of Mr. J. C. Peck and City Surveyor McDaniel which have from time to time appeared in THE CONSTITUTION, well merit the consideration of the city council, as they do the attention of every tax-payer and citizen.

You are altogether right when you state "that the sewerage system of Atlanta is a matter about which no mistakes should be made." I do not intend to go into any detailed investigation as to the merits of any particular system which either of the gentlemen named presents, but I desire to call attention to a fact which I have noticed of late that really needs looking into, "in order to save costs."

I have noticed that in all the sewers which have lately been built that the city has used the cement pipe in their construction, and I have failed to observe that any vitrified or glazed pipe has been laid down.

As both kinds of pipe are manufactured here, the question as to which should be extensively used should turn on ground of economy and the adaptability of each to answer the purpose intended. The cost of the two kinds of pipe do not materially differ in actual price. I am told that the cement pipe is furnished at a cost of some ten or fifteen per cent less than the same size glazed pipe, the difference being made in using less material in the manufacture than was formerly, when both pipes were furnished at the same rates, and consequently must be less efficient for sewerage purposes.

Whether the cause of this difference is correctly stated or not, there are things bearing on the subject which I think conclusively show that it is a false economy which substitutes this for the glazed pipe.

The comparative merits of two kinds of pipe have been thoroughly agitated and as thoroughly tested in this country. Immense corporations have been created from many prominent cities and towns for the special use of the glazed pipe, and vast amounts of experience has been brought forward, and the best attainable information on the subject has been collected.

From all this it is quite certain that the testimony and preference has been given to the glazed pipe. Cement sewers have their advocates and are used in some of the cities but there is not that degree of satisfaction found to exist as does exist in those cities where the exclusive use of the vitrified pipe is had.

It is notable that cement pipe is not as durable as the glazed pipe. Owing to its porous construction the sewer gases operate on it and produce disintegration and decay. The pieces are not uniform, some are hard and others crumble in the hand, and therefore are liable to break. While on the other hand the glazed pipe have always answered all demands. Before engaging themselves extensively in the use of either pipe would it not be well for the sewer committee to test the qualities of both by examing both kinds of pipes which were laid down several years ago in this city, using this as a test of merit, since they are unable to get a committee of competent persons to decide for them

CITIZEN.

ATLANTA, September 14.

Rev. J. T. Leftwich, D. D.

This distinguished divine returned from Virginia on yesterday, and was met at the depot by quite a number of his congregation, who had assembled there to greet him. His many friends will be gratified to learn that he is in excellent health, and that he will occupy his pulpit at the usual hour this morning.

DAVID H. DOUGHERTY,

(Formerly of Silvey & Dougherty),

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, Notions, Fancy Goods, Hats, Shoes, &c.

33 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia

In making my fall announcement for 1878, to my friends and the public, I beg its consideration and will be as brief as consistent in saying what I feel authorized to claim for my facilities and stock.

I have just returned from the eastern markets, where I and my resident buyer have been spending several weeks in arduous labor, gutting up my present stock, all of which was bought for CASH, thereby getting the largest discounts and the closest figures that is possible for any house to get, either North or South. Besides, most of my goods were bought for my Wholesale Room by the package, thus enabling me to get the package discount as well.

An examination of my stock will satisfy you that it is immense, and embraces everything in my line that is essential to any people.

I feel no hesitancy in saying that I can present the finest Dress Goods department South of Baltimore, including a large stock of Domestic Dress Goods. Also, an immense stock of Foreign Dress Goods, embracing the newest novelties in French dress goods, from the cheapest to the finest goods imported. In Black Alpacas, Cashmeres, Tamise, Henrietta, Australian Cloths, &c. Black Gros Grain and Cashmere Silks, Black Dress and Trimming Silks in great variety—almost any shade or combination of color. One of the handsomest lines ever offered in this market.

I could not enumerate my entire stock by writing a week, and hence the impropriety of further taxing your time. But I must say a word in reference to my Hosiery and Neckwear departments. They are so full of Novelties that an inspection of these goods will cause you to wonder at their IMMENSE VARIETY and splendor. They are lovely.

I hold to the doctrine that there is more reward from small profits and large sales than can be derived from small sales and large profits. Hence my determination to sustain the well earned reputation that I have acquired for selling goods cheaper than they can be bought elsewhere, and this being my first fall stock since I withdrew from the old firm of Silvey & Dougherty, every dollars' worth of goods are fresh and new, therefore I don't have to charge up long profits on new goods to avenge the loss on old rubbish stock.

It has been well said by some that forgood friendship and newspaper puffs alone will not win. I claim that there is no obligation existing between seller and buyer. It is mere business, and all that I ask is an examination of my stock, then if you are not satisfied that what I have to say about cheap goods is true, and can't do as well or be ter by buying of me, I don't ask you to do it. Others claim to buy at auction sales. Well, suppose they do. Did I not do it too? Call and examine my stock or send for samples and compare prices. I mean to sell goods cheap and thereby avoid the necessity of making a speech over every sale.

MY MOTO:—Give you what you buy, dispatch in filling orders, polite and prompt attention to customers, and low prices.

I thank the public for past encouragement and hope to merit your continued favors by serving you to the best of my ability.

Respectfully, D. H DOUGHERTY.

Personal Notice.

It has been a great source of pleasure for us to make note of the many enterprising business men which we have in our midst, but seldom have we ever made mention of one so deserving of our notice and the public generally as the one which we are about to write.

It is W. A. Shannon, that enterprising grocery man on Whitehall street. It is remarkable that but a few years ago, in the very dullest season of the year, he started in the retail grocery business a few doors from where he now occupies, and it is a fact (although we have heard the cry of hard times all around us) that from the very first word go, he seemed to make business a success. We have often remarked, when dealing with him, how it was he always seemed to be so busy and getting along so well. Whereupon he would simply reply, because I pay for the goods I purchase, and consequently I can get them at the lowest market price and, therefore, I can afford to sell them as cheap, if not cheaper, than any one else in my line of business. Then, again, I strive to keep my store neat and clean, and everything in its place, which is more attractive than anything else; for when a customer steps into a store like this they feel at home and rest assured that anything they may buy will be strictly fresh and of the very best.

Certainly his ideas about this matter is exactly right and worthy of imitation. He never wearies in well doing, for you may pass at any time and you will find him and his efficient clerks always doing something to ornament their business house. He has just had the front of his store handsomely painted, and at the late hour of 11 o'clock at night he was to be seen busily engaged in painting and varnishing up the shelves and counters in order that they might correspond with the beautiful outside appearance. Time fails us, to do him justice at this time. Suffice it to say his untiring efforts to give his customers and the public generally a neat and clean place to get goods at the lowest market price, is very by of the patronage of the public, and we would advise all to call and see his store at your very earliest opportunity, and you will be handsomely rewarded.

A Live Merchant.

Mr. A. A. Campbell, at No. 9 West Alabama street, is one of the livest merchants in the city. He has a regular depot for butter, eggs and poultry. He also sells produce on commission. Anything consigned to him will receive prompt attention, and will be sold at the best the market brings, and that in short time His customers love to deal with him. Mr Campbell has built up a splendid trade, and he deserves it. Go to his depot and buy your butter, eggs and poultry.
